

TO OLD MEXICO.

Two Ohio River Pilots May Engage in Steamboating There.

THEY WILL BUILD A BOAT THERE.

Instead of Taking a Steamer from the Ohio Down the Mississippi and Across the Gulf of Mexico—One of the First Steamboats Ever Built in That Country. Messrs. Booth and Sandford Think They Have a Good Thing.

Two Ohio river steamboat pilots, one of them a Wheeling man, may soon pose as steamboat magnates away down in an out-of-the-way corner of out-of-the-way Mexico, the land of free silver and fifty-cent dollars. The Wheeling man is Captain A. Booth, nephew of the veteran John K. Booth, and the other is Captain James Sandford, of Cincinnati, both of whom have recently been in the government snag-boat E. A. Woodruff as pilots.

Captain Booth spoke of his probable venture in Old Mexico yesterday afternoon to an Intelligence reporter. He thinks that there is a fine opening for steamboats on the American plan on the rivers and Nauchal rivers, which run into the Gulf at the port of Coahuila (imagine A. Booth pronouncing that name). He and Captain Sandford expect to receive valuable concessions from the San Miguel Land Company, of Cincinnati, which has 50,000 acres of land on the Upanapa river, about fifty miles from its mouth. They have decided that instead of pursuing the usual course—taking a steamboat with them from the Ohio or Mississippi—they will build their boat at Coahuila. They think of building a steamboat of about the size of the Liberty or H. K. Bedford, and in the event of their going to Mexico, will leave early in January.

Already a number of Cincinnati people have gone to the San Miguel company's land, and a large colony from the Ohio valley is to go there in the near future. The building of the Tehuantepec railway across the Isthmus of that name, has caused a boom in the region and Messrs. Booth and Sandford expect to reap some of the pecuniary benefits.

STUDENTS IN REBELLION

At the State University Through Sympathy for the Foot-Ball Team—Riotous Demonstrations at Chapel.

Special Dispatch to the Intelligence.
MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Oct. 29.—The trouble brewing between the students and faculty of the university, over the management of the foot ball team reached a climax yesterday morning in a demonstration directed against a member of the faculty, who the students claim is embarrassing the association. When this member came into chapel he was greeted with prolonged howls and yells and hoists of a turbulent nature. T. M. Orr, a senior, was seen by the president to be a participant. He was summoned before the faculty last night and expelled.

This morning a more violent demonstration occurred. The members of the athletic faculty were again hissed and after roll call in chapel about three hundred students arose in a body and left chapel, making at the same time a noisy demonstration against the athletic faculty. The president ordered an other roll call and the names of those who left were gotten. The president and faculty had chapel almost alone, but say they will expel the whole crowd if they can make out a case against them. They will meet to-night to take action.

About a week ago W. B. Cutright, an assistant professor, resigned from the management of the team, the association being about $1,500 in debt. The students elected H. F. Doris manager, but the athletic faculty would not recognize the election, nor accept Cutright's resignation. This led to complications in the schedule and caused the dissatisfaction among the team which culminated in the riotous demonstration by the sympathetic students.

DAYTON AT MANNINGTON.

A Homing Greeting from Marion County Constituents, and a Good Speech.

MANNINGTON, W. Va., Oct. 29.—The campaign in this section of the Second congressional district was given a great impetus here yesterday, the occasion being the presence of Congressman A. G. Dayton, who has a very warm hold upon the hearts of the people of Marion county, on account of his earnest labors in behalf of the immense mineral wealth of this section, by working energetically for slack-liver navigation in the Monongahela river.

Notwithstanding the fact that his coming had not been thoroughly advertised beforehand, and that at this time of the year the farmers are busy gathering and storing their crops, a large and enthusiastic crowd gathered upon the streets and shortly after noon were treated to some delightful music by the Mannington Cornet band, after which the crowd eagerly gathered at the Opera House to hear the Little Giant of Harbort county discuss the issues of the campaign in his usual eloquent and forcible manner.

For more than an hour the crowd which filled the opera house, listened attentively to the discussion and exposure of the Chicago platform and were highly pleased at the way in which it was handled. The speech delivered here to-day was the eighty-second one delivered by the gallant congressman during this campaign and was freely applauded.

During the progress of the meeting the Hon. John W. Mason, of Fairmont, arrived and was introduced for a short discussion, which he gave in his masterly style, and which was very convincing to all present. The crowd was composed of farmers, mechanics, and laboring men. Ladies also lent their presence and influence to insure the success of the meeting. Marion county is going to give more than her usual vote for protection and sound money and will not fail to strike a death blow to the tariff reform and free silver heresies.

Dayton at Home.

PHILIPPI, W. Va., Oct. 29.—A great meeting was held at Philippi to-day, addressed by Messrs. Dayton and Mason. This is Mr. Dayton's home and his reception was a magnificent ovation from his fellow-citizens.

Mr. Adams at Weston.

Special Dispatch to the Intelligence.
WESTON, W. Va., Oct. 29.—Hon. Henry Austin Adams, of New York, sound money Democrat, addressed a large audience here to-day with a very able effort, dealing chiefly with the Bryan platform plank, relating to the supreme court, federal interference and income tax. He dealt ably some heavy blows.

DEATH TO DEVELOPMENT

Would be Bryan's Election—How Capital Will be Kept from West Virginia.

Special Dispatch to the Intelligence.
HUNTINGTON, W. Va., Oct. 29.—General Dacey, of New York, president of the Virginia's Railway Company, wired General Robert Avery, secretary of the company, who has been in this city for a few days, as follows:

"I have thoroughly canvassed the financial situation and am firmly convinced that the success of Bryan would most seriously retard the construction of the Virginia's Railway and the development of coal mines along its line and bring disaster to West Virginia. I have taken special pains to ascertain the feeling in financial circles in this country and Europe and am satisfied that no money can be had for new enterprises until the gold standard is assured in this country. While I am a Democrat of the most pronounced kind and am bent on retaining my seat and vote for McKinley, and if he is elected I will put at least a thousand men on the Virginia's railway within sixty days following his election. The opening of mines and development of timber lands will speedily follow.

"I am not a politician or employee of the national Republican committee, but am deeply interested in West Virginia's development.

What Farmers Owe to Bryan.

To the Editor of the Intelligence.

SIR—The Popocratic organ (the Register), says in Thursday's issue that there is a farmer in Ohio that can't pay his rent off the farm he has under lease. I can well believe it. Mr. Bryan and his party said four years ago that the farmers were getting too much for their products. So they arranged the tariff to cut prices down. The farmers themselves can tell best how well Mr. Bryan and his colleagues succeeded. The farmer suffered under Mr. B's hands worse than any other person.

A glance at the schedule proves this. How could farm products be other than from 50 per cent to 60 per cent cheaper now than before Mr. B. interceded for the welfare (?) of the farmer? The thing that surprises me is Mr. B's colossal nerve in asking a farmer to vote for him on the platform of what he believes (?) if the farmers are satisfied with the prices and times they are having. I hope they will vote for him as there is no doubt he will continue them and help them the way he did when his district sent him to Congress.

Oh, yes, Mr. B. is a friend of the farmer; if the Register will kindly show us how he ever increased the price of the farmer's or any other working man's labor we will esteem it a favor. If the Register's "great commoner" should be elected, that Ohio farmer will do well if he saves his household goods.

WHEELING, Oct. 29.

Kept His Pledge.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 29.—In addition to the $100,000 of bonds left in trust for him, conditionally upon his remaining sober for five years, George Crocker, second son of the deceased millionaire, has just come into possession of a one-eighth interest in his father's estate, which is equivalent in round numbers to $1,000,000. Now that the big property interests have been transferred, they will leave for the east within a week and will pass the winter in New York.

Egg Throwers Expelled.

CHICAGO, Oct. 29.—Louis J. Hancock and Chauncey C. Foster were expelled to-day from the business college at which they were students. They were the youths who threw eggs at Wm. J. Bryan and who were released by the police yesterday at Mr. Bryan's request. Neither of the students were present when principal O. M. Powers to-day formally announced the expulsion to the college of the two youths. This announcement was received in silence.

THE COUVILLE MYSTERY.

Joseph Aubert and Marguerite Du Bois Sentenced for the Murder.

(Copyright, 1896, by the Associated Press.)
PARIS, Oct. 29.—Joseph Aubert and Marguerite Du Bois, his mistress, after having been convicted of murdering Emile Delahoff, the young stamp collector, whose body was found in a packing case at Couville in May last, were sentenced to-day. Aubert was sentenced to penal servitude for life and Marguerite Du Bois was sentenced to three years imprisonment.

The trial was known as the "Couville Mystery" and has filled many columns of the French newspapers.

One evening in May last a man and a woman coming from Paris got off at Couville, a place of about four hundred inhabitants on the Western railway. The travelers left a packing case in the baggage room with a trunk. This baggage remained at the station all the next day and the railroad employees noticed a sickening smell coming up from the case.

The station master ordered the box to be opened and found the body of a young man. The man and woman were arrested and gave false names.

No difficulty was found in establishing the identity of the corpse. It was that of Julian Emile Delahoff, formerly living with his father, a well-to-do brick-maker in Paris.

The trunk contained the man's effects. It developed that young Delahoff was a stamp collector and had valuable collections which was the cause of his death.

He wanted to sell his collection and the male prisoner, Aubert, had several meetings with him. Aubert made an appointment with young Delahoff at his residence. The same evening, May 14, Delahoff, sr., received a telegram, apparently signed by his son, announcing that he had sold his collection of postage stamps and was leaving for Chicago.

Marguerite Du Bois made a complete confession. She said that when, on May 14, she returned to where she lived with Aubert, the latter pointed to a corpse on the floor and said they quarreled. He took a hatchet and struck the man, although he did not wish to kill him.

The murderer exhibited extraordinary nerve, but finally broke down and admitted killing young Delahoff; but, he declared, he had not stolen anything from his victim.

It was proven that he had taken the stamps. Aubert had been disappointed in literary aspirations and turned to crime.

PATRIOTIC SONGS

Awaken Great Enthusiasm Among Veterans for the Cause McKinley Represents.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Oct. 29.—The Union generals arrived here about noon to-day and were met at the station by a committee of veterans who escorted them to the Hotel Duquesne. This afternoon a public reception was held and this evening the generals attended a camp-fire at exposition hall, given by the union veterans' patriotic league and the Allegheny War Veterans' Association. They were escorted to the hall by fully 1,000 veterans.

Between 7,000 and 8,000 people attended the camp-fire and the speakers, General Russell A. Alger, O. O. Howard, Jack W. Burdett, of Illinois, Adjutant General Thomas J. Sewast and Corporal Tanner were enthusiastically applauded when telling points were made.

A feature of the meeting was the singing of "America," by the big audience, led by Chaplain McCabe, who is now a Methodist bishop and in attendance at the bishops' conference now being held in this city. The chaplain also sang "We are Marching, Father Abraham," etc., which aroused the most intense enthusiasm among the old soldiers present.
